The Appalachian Training School has opened grandly this time. The senior class this year is large,—perhaps there will be 15.

The dormitory is doing well. It is one of the best equipped homes in the county, with good spring water flowing always into the building.

Again the location is ideal being in a sheltered place, well protected from the storms. The floors are all doubled. The building storm-sheeted and well ceiled. The young ladies will come out of the home into the school building without being the least exposed.

The influence of this school will help many communities. Good strong local schools can be established with efficient teachers. When the Training school gives to a neighborhood a good teacher it has helped that community wonderfully, when it gives to the teacher an opportunity to gather knowledge and inspiration, at a small cost, it has helped those teachers.

Within a few years all the people of the mountain belt will be helped.

Boone is a little Athens on the Blue Ridge. Many young people have walked and will upon her streets. The people of the town and community have done what they could to make this a pleasant place for students. We welcome and are always glad to see students.

The Sunday school and church appointments are good. The moral tone of our people is excellent. The social life is simple and refined. While there may be some bickering now and then. We doubt if there be anywhere a people that get along more smoothly and courteously than ours. Had it not been for this one thing—co-operation—this school long ago would have failed. We must not forget this.

Few are entirely free from it. It may develop so slowly as to cause little if any disturbance during the whole period of childhood. It may then produce dyspepsia, catarrh, and marked tendency to consumption, before causing eruptions, sores or swellings. To get entirely rid of it take the great blood-purifier,

The Salisbury correspondent of Monday's Charlotte Observer indicates the stirring campaign that Hon. R. N. Hackett is waging through out and in every corner of the Eighth:

"Mr. R. N. Hackett was here yesterday returning from the date he had at Albemarle Friday night when nearly 150 men joined the Democratic club there. One of the State's best known young men who was there estimated the crowd to which he talked with huskiness and sore throat too severe for a speech at one thousand. This young wheel horse is arousing the district and when he gets in good shape he is ready to turn loose some of the spiciest campaign matter heard on a stump in a long time. Owing to his condition and to the fact that he had four dates this week, Mr. Hackett was unable to speak in Salisbury this week."
